

Dear students and colleagues,

Preliminary positive COVID-19 student infection case
(27 January 2022)

The University has received a report today that a student from the School of Continuing Education's Bachelor of Nursing (Honours) programme has preliminarily tested positive for COVID-19.

According to the information available, the last time the student entered the Kowloon Tong campus to attend class was on 12 January. As a close contact of another confirmed COVID-19 infection case, the student was required to undergo compulsory quarantine at the Penny's Bay Quarantine Centre on 26 January, and has preliminarily tested positive for COVID-19 today.

As the student's last entry to campus was on 12 January and has had no close contact with any member of the university community in the past seven days, based on Centre for Health Protection's advice on similar cases, our preliminary assessment is that the case has no immediate health risk to the HKBU community. Yet we will closely monitor the situation and alert you if there is any latest development with health implication to students and staff members.

I wish the student a speedy recovery. For enquiries, please contact the Estates Office at 3411 7997.
